There was a mission "Our Lady of Light Mission" and its auxiliary fort (at what is now Wallenboro), founded in 1756 to guard against French encroachment from the east. 30 soldiers manned the fort and soon 2 friars arrived who were to minister to the OROQUISAC tribe. However the elder friar died shortly after arrival the younger friar begged his superiors to retrain him.

The lonely mission faced hurricanes in 1762 and 1766.

The 50 families that were expected to establish a town - never arrived

In America: French and Indian War

Russia and Saxeony desired to divide Prussia; Dreieker to an alliance with England, of whom all European countries are jealous because of her success at sea and in colonizing.

By the Peace of Hubertsburg (1763) Austria and Prussia territorially remain the same and Austria became English rather than French.
Prussia by the genius of Frederick, had stepped
